Philanthropy

If you have watched our Learning Modules, or any of the information on our site and found it to be worthwhile, or of any value to you, we would very much appreciate a donation to any of the worthwhile charities listed here in this section of our website.

Your are free to choose to donate as much as you like to any charity, and we urge you from a position of Love and Gratitude to do something that will have a positive impact in the world and help out someone less fortunate.

The Purpose of the Truthology Foundation, and all of those that we help establish on your behalf, is to benefit humankind in all aspects of life and to help those who are unable to help themselves for whatever reason. You dont have to do this right now, but please take the time to consider the few worthwhile causes we have listed below, or search the web and find another that touches you and moves you to contribute rather than consume.

Namaste

Truthology is very proud to announce our support of an amazing organisation working to end the disgusting trade in human misery and degradation that is the child sex slave industry. The organisation is dedicated to ending this barbaric and inhumane treatment of innocent children throughout the world, and we will do everything within our power to assist them at every level and urge our members to join with us to do the same.

The organisation is, Free to Shine and we have included some information about them below to introduce you to them and the amazing work that they are doing!

- Free To Shine Ltd is a nonprofit humanitarian organisation based in Australia, which prevents and responds to trafficking against children in Cambodia. Free to Shine work in partnership with local communities in Cambodia to create long-term scholarships for girls at risk, and university scholarships for survivors of sex trafficking.

• Human trafficking occurs in 161 different countries. An estimated 20.9 million people globally are currently in forced labour, 4.5 million of which are victims of forced sexual exploitation, 945,000 of which are children. Profits from forced commercial sexual exploitation are calculated at US$ 27.8 billion per year.[3] The Asia-Pacific region accounts for 56% of the global total of trafficked persons. Trafficked children are subject to rape, torture, forced abortions, starvation and threats to family members. It is a complete violation of their right to protection, and a childhood where they can grow up in a family environment and have access to education.

• The root causes of children being trafficked for sex are complex. Factors include poverty and gender inequality. The International Labour Organisation states that getting girls into school and keeping them there is vital in reducing their vulnerability to trafficking. The 2006 United Nations Secretary-General's study on Violence against Children made a number of recommendations on preventing violence against children, including that policies and programs should address immediate risk factors, such as a lack of parent-child attachment, family breakdown and abuse of alcohol or drugs, and states that attention should be focused on policies that address poverty and gender inequality.

• Two and a half years ago our CEO, Nicky Mih went to Cambodia to investigate what we here in Australia could do to assist survivors of sex slavery. Nicky spent a month with more than 200 survivors. The approach and philosophy was not to rescue or fix but to empower. What did they want? They wanted to end sex slavery. They wanted for survivors to be able to attend university for free so that they could become teachers, doctors and lawyers as they viewed these professions as being fundamental in ending sex slavery. They also explained that when girls are rescued from the brothels the traffickers simply go out into the villages and take a new young girl. They wanted these girls to be protected. They believed that if these young girls were in school they would not be trafficked.

Our Vision

Free To Shine envisions a world where every girl is free from the horrors and tortures of sex slavery, a world instead where every girl attends school, receiving the opportunity and her human right to be free to shine.

To Empower through education to end sex slavery

1. Provide scholarships to girls identified as at risk of being trafficked.
2. Provide further education opportunities including university scholarships to survivors to become teachers, social workers, health care professionals, counselors and lawyers thus preventing and responding to trafficking and bringing about change in their communities and country

Who is Animals Australia Inc.?

Animals Australia is Australia's foremost national animal protection organisation, representing some 40 member societies and thousands of individual supporters. Animals Australia has an unprecedented track record in investigating and exposing animal cruelty and for conducting world-first strategic public awareness campaigns.

Animals Australia's vision is a world where all animals are treated with compassion and respect and are free from cruelty. We believe that we can create a kinder world for all by fostering respect for animals and that our treatment of animals reflects who we are as individuals and as a society.

Heres some example of the types of things that Animals Australia is trying to stop.

The end for these three bulls was violent and tragic. Sadly, on the streets of Mauritius, countless other Australian bulls also suffered terribly.

None of this should ever have happened. Discover more »

The unfortunate bulls in Mauritius were delivered to this horror direct from the importer's feedlot — in blatant contravention of Australia's live export regulations. This industry cannot be trusted to play by the rules, let alone write them.

Our new Prime Minister says live export "is a good industry". But no government can support an industry that continually breaches regulations.

For the bulls who were abandoned to suffer in Mauritius, make your voice heard! Use this form to contact your MP and ask them how they can support an industry that is acting like it is above the law.

Factory farming is the number one cause of animal cruelty today.

BUT.....With your help we can end it. We can make it possible.

www.makeitpossible.com

It is hard to imagine what it must be like to wake every day only to suffer. Yet this has become reality for the majority of animals raised into human care today. The mother pig who remains practically immobilised inside a metal crate barely bigger than her body — the baby chicken who can barely stand up to support his unnatural weight — and the hen who never sees daylight trapped inside a crowded battery cage — all have one thing in common. In the name of expediency and profit, they have all been denied a life worth living. And why should they be???

Animals Australia ıcial youtube clip

You would be prosecuted if you did this to a puppy or kitten so why should it be any different to farm animals?

The fact that they are each living, breathing beings who feel, is ignored. They are every bit as inquisitive, social, and intelligent as the animals who we call members of our families. Like cats and dogs, farmed animals crave safety and comfort. They too respond to kindness and affection — if given the chance. Yet most will never experience human kindness in their lives. For most, the first time they will see the outside world will be the last day of their lives — as they are trucked to slaughter.

Imagine for a moment what a world without factory farming would look like... a world where animals are treated as the living, feeling beings that they are — more than just cogs in a production line; more than just products on supermarket shelves.

Make it Possible — is an appeal to end factory farming in Australia and we want you to help be a part of this amazingly new appeal.

We are going where no animal protection group has gone before, because the scale of cruelty necessitates it. We have an ambitious plan but it is absolutely achievable — with your help.

COAL SEAM GAS - FRACKING is DESTROYING our environment right NOW

Show your DISGUST and support and JOIN LOCK THE GATE NOW !!!!!!!

Who is LOCK THE GATE?

The LOCK THE GATE Alliance is a national alliance of over 120 community, industry and environmental groups and over 1000 supporters concerned with the devastating impact that certain inadequately assessed and inadequately-regulated fossil fuel extraction industries are having on our short and long term physical, social, environmental and economic wellbeing. We are particularly concerned with the damage caused by the coal and coal seam gas (CSG) mining industries.

What does LOCK THE GATE want?

We believe that neither we, nor our governments (at all levels), are sufficiently well informed about these industries, about their true role in our economy and their impact on our health and welfare as a nation and within the diverse communities that constitute our nation. We are concerned that the short-term greed associated with these industries (including that of governments through royalties and other returns) is compromising the welfare of future generations of Australians and our future ability to thrive in a new world driven by renewable energy sources.

We believe that the interaction of these industries with our governments and the extreme imbalance between the way their rights are measured against the rights of others in the community is indicative of a system that is no longer working for all Australians and that has lost a moral and ethical compass.

Our mission is to hold our governments to account for past decisions regarding the operation of destructive fossil fuel industries and ensure that future decisions incorporate the rights of current and future generations of Australians to sustain their communities, pursue their livelihoods, enjoy and realise the potential of their assets (natural, cultural and economic) and operate within a healthy natural environment. In doing so, we wish to encourage our vision of a model of government decision-making that is properly informed, inclusive, far-sighted and morally and ethically based.
